VINSON GETS PRAISE
Below is a copy of a letter from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to Fred M. Vinson, congressman from the eighth district of Kentucky: National Press Building Washington

July 5, 1934.
Honorable Fred M. Vinson, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.
My dear Fred:
Now that Congress has adjourned, may I not take this opportunity to thank you for the fine spirit of cooperation that you have exhibited with reference to the national administration. It is my honest judgment that the record of the seventy-third congress will go down in history as an epoch making achievement, dedicated as it was to the benefit of the people of this country.

I want you to know how appreciative I am of your fine spirit of helpfulness. The seventy-third congress can stand on its record. For the constructive legislation, for the far-seeing vision, for the understanding of the human needs of the people of the country, you as a member of this congress can well be proud.

And when you return for the seventy-fourth congress next year, I am sure you will be just as helpful in the furtherance of the new program of social legislation which President Roosevelt has put forward as a goal for the next two years of his administration.

With kind regards, believe me Sincerely yours,
JAMES A. FARLEY, Chairman

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

Recently the writer had a letter from a very lovely Christian girl who is in a certain college. She said, "I walk in rooms here in the girls' dormitory and see girls smoking and hear them using profane language. It is so disgusting." There was a time when smoking, painted, drinking, cursing women lived in one section of town and had no standing with decent people. How things have changed in my lifetime, and I am not very old.

I believe in colleges. Why shouldn't I? I am the founder and president of the Bob Jones college. I believe in education. However, there are a lot worse things than not going to college. If I had a daughter I had rather she would stay at home and make her finger nails at a wash tub than to go off to some college and come home cursing, smoking cigarettes, and not believing in God and the old time deccencies.

Some time ago one of the friends of the Bob Jones college was riding on a train with a blatant infidel. This infidel was criticizing religion, preachers, and churches. He, not realizing that he was talking to a friend of mine, said, "Take Bob Jones and the Bob Jones college, I haven't any use for them. I wouldn't send one of my boys or girls to that kind of school." My friend let him make his speech and then quietly asked, "Have you any children?" The man said, "I have two—a son and a daughter." "Well," said my friend, "in the Bob Jones college they don't drink and gamble. They don't stay out at night. They live decent lives. Hadn't you rather your son and daughter would go to that sort of school even though you don't believe in religion?" The man hesitated for a moment and said, "To be honest, I believe I had rather they would go there even if they do have to take the religion than to go off to some schools where they are exposed to a lot of temptations." This country needs more colleges which stand for the real old time everyday religion and old time chaperonage and discipline.

Cars Collide

Two heavy sedan cars, a Chevrolet and a Dodge, met in a head-on collision at the first sharp curve on the Garrett highway west of West Liberty on Monday afternoon. The Chevrolet is the Bruce McKenzie car and was driven by Sherman McKenzie. The Dodge was from Menfee county and was owned and driven by a Mr. Faulkner. Both cars were badly damaged. Sherman McKenzie, who was riding with Herman Nickell, and one or two of the riders in the other car received rather serious cuts and bruises.

FISH AND GAME NOTES

In the bulletin of the state game and fish commission issued July 1 this item appears:

Notice of Reward

The Game and Fish Commission offers a $50 reward for information that will lead to the conviction of anyone dynamiting fish. To collect the reward it will be necessary to have the game warden and the circuit judge or the commonwealth's attorney to certify that the person applying for the reward was the informer.

Dynamiting fish since June 13 is a felony, and carries a penalty of one to five years. Of late, I don't think anyone in Morgan county has been guilty of this unsportsmanlike act, but being "good fellows" they have stood back and allowed outsiders to do it. This law is very popular and should be enforced. Get your man! If you can't get names, get car numbers and dates and we will get him.

The squirrel season will open Aug. 1. The game and fish commission has just delivered two truckloads of fingerlings, bass and blue gill bream, in all about 20,000 fish. We were supplied with 225 pheasant eggs and one setting of wild turkey eggs.

The commission is assured of our cooperation, so don't break our trust, but keep going and let our aim be wild deer in northeastern Kentucky.

The local fish and game club has been organized a little over a year and we are getting some tangible results. We thank the hundreds of good citizens who have encouraged us and have given us their support.

GEO. S. OWSELEY, Sec.
Morgan Co. Fish & Game Pro. Assn.

THE TRUSTEE ELECTION

I wish to compliment the people of Morgan county for their calmness and ability to go thru a subdistrict trustee election without any trouble. So far, there has been no serious trouble reported. This is something of which we are glad to boast. While the vote was being counted here in the office, everybody was rather peaceable. We exercised the highest degree of care in protecting the ballot boxes placed in our custody. I realize that some were disappointed in the results. Someone must win; someone must lose. Our pilgrimage is full of disappointments. I will say to those who lost what an old sage said, "Anybody can stand a victory; it takes a great man to stand defeat."

We expect absolute cooperation on the part of the trustees elect. The law says: "They shall have the power and it shall be their duty to exercise general control over the school property of the subdistrict under the general supervision of the county board of education. Each shall advise freely with the superintendent of schools of the county district on all matters pertaining to the general welfare of the school or schools in his subdistrict." OVA O. HANEY, county supt.

SEWING CIRCLE MEETS

Cannel City, Ky.—The Church of God Sewing Circle met with Mrs. W. J. Terrill on Friday, July 6. The meeting was opened by singing "On Jordan's Stormy Banks."

Mrs. W. T. Stamper, president, presided at the meeting and gave the devotional reading, John 17. Mrs. Emma Terrill led in prayer. The secretary, Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. After the usual business meeting a new quilt was started and quite a bit was accomplished.

The hostess had the room beautifully decorated with flowers and served delightful refreshments of cakes and lemonade during the social hour. Members present were Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. J. W. Benton, Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, Mrs. G. E. Nickell, Mrs. Emma Terrill, Mrs. J. D. Benton, Mrs. Lonnie Patrick, Mrs. George Collinsworth, Mrs. Nan Watson, Mrs. Chalmers Benton, Mrs. Mahan Daugan, and Mrs. W. J. Terrill.

The next meeting will be held on July 20 with Mrs. Chalmers Benton.

New Business Venture

Harlen Murphy of this place and Harry Jones of Salsersville have formed a partnership for the purpose of supplying the county with an undertaking service. They have just received a line of caskets and funeral accessories which they have on display in their office in the McGuire building. Both these men are well known and they have close business relations with licensed funeral directors. The new firm will fill a long felt need in the community.

The Teachers' Opportunity

The time for serious thought and thorough preparation for the work of the public schools for next year and the years to come is at hand. Many of the rural schools will begin within the next few days and the time for all schools to begin the year's work is not far away. It is very important that teachers, school administrators, and school boards must put their house in order by adopting and following strictly a code of ethics, laying aside petty politics, and rendering value received for every dollar spent for the cause of education, only by breadth of vision, consecration to duty, and a sincere desire to serve the best interests of the childhood of the state can they hope to maintain the confidence of the people and build a system of schools which will be a source of pride not only to Kentucky but to the nation.

Only the first battles of the conflict in behalf of a better citizenship and of a better and more prosperous commonwealth have been fought and won. The struggle for advancement is not only slow, but it must be continuous. Many worthy causes have been lost because of success in the beginning which has led to over-confidence and sometimes to divisions in the ranks of the forces fighting for the right on account of personal ambitions of individuals for selfish motives. The cause of education is greater than the personal ambitions of any individual or group of individuals. Only by unity of purpose can great victories be won in behalf of the childhood of the state.

Some of the objectives of the immediate future need much publicity in order that the people may be informed of the plans and purposes of the schools. The schools should take the people into their confidence.

The environment of the school should be as attractive as possible. Old buildings which are unfit for school use should be replaced as soon as possible by others which conform to the regulations of modern school architecture. The furniture should be comfortable and adapted to school use. The grounds should be provided with facilities for play and recreation.

Teachers should be selected only on the basis of merit. Good scholarship must be one of the products of school room instruction. The problems confronting the new generation will demand ability to concentrate and think a proposition thru to its logical conclusion. The most important product of school activity is assisting pupils to form correct attitudes. Pupils should leave school with optimism toward life and its possibilities and they should have an attitude of obedience to law, of cooperation, of self-control, and of kindness to humanity in every condition of life and to all other creatures. Pupils should leave school with an attitude of reverence and respect for religion. They should have vocational guidance and should learn to feel that every individual has his place to fill in life. The school should radiate life and lead toward a more abundant life in the great and constructive program of public education upon the achievement of the past two years and of the future.

In the fight against ignorance and crime, corruption, and low standards of morals, and for better social, economic, and political conditions the teachers, school administrators, and school boards cannot fail and must upon the people themselves. W. H. SUGG, Supt. Graded School, Glasgow, Ky.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Former Governor W. J. Fields will speak at the courthouse in West Liberty at 1 p.m. Monday, July 23, 1934, in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for congress. Everybody invited. Ex-service men are especially invited, as he will have something to say that will be of direct interest to them. (Adv.)

McKENZIE — HURTON

Miss Edna McKenzie and Jay Hurton, two of our most popular young people, stole a march on their friends about ten days ago and were quietly married in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harlen Murphy. The bride is in school at Morehead. On Friday her husband met her there and they went to Chicago to enjoy the World Fair a few days. On their return they expect to go to housekeeping. Mr. Hurton is employed in the postoffice and Mrs. Hurton is a teacher in the West Liberty school.

The young couple, familiarly known as Jay and Edna, have been friends since they were children. In fact, they were schoolmates and both graduated from the Morgan county high school. They are both industrious, thrifty, and have high ideals. They have a large circle of young friends who are ready to give them a boost up the royal road of happiness.

The bride becomes Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Hurton's first daughter, of whom they are very proud.

The groom steps into a family of three girls with only one brother, Jay is welcomed and loved by the McKenzies.

We predict and wish for the young couple a bright and prosperous future.

Our Birthday

The Courier is twenty-four years young this week. Many things happen in a newspaper office in the course of twenty-four years. Changes of ownership and management are just one of the things which a paper must necessarily undergo with the passing of the years. One third of Courier history has been made under the present management. We enter upon the new year with full confidence of greater opportunity for service to the county and state we all love.

School to Get Flag

At the request of L. C. Caskey, a trustee of the Wells Hill school, Highland Council no. 71, Junior Order United American Mechanics, at its regular meeting Monday night, July 16, decided to make a public presentation of an American flag for the use of that school. Arrangements for the time of presentation will be made to suit the convenience of the school.

Mrs. J. R. Kendall and her sister, Miss Sarah Seltz, returned Friday from Florida. They tell us as soon as their train crossed into Kentucky "Uncle Jack" (A. J. Davidson) was better. He can be up now and walks about. Mr. Davidson stopped off with relatives at Mt. Sterling, but came on to West Liberty Tuesday to visit the ladies who so faithfully look after his welfare during his winters in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lykins and daughter Anna Ruth went to Lexington Saturday and brought Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shouse and little daughter Edith and Joe Lykins in for the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Lykins took them back to school Monday. They got caught in the storm and sat in their car thru it all. Orenar Elam was their chauffeur.

Mrs. Dora M. Swango of Dayton, Ohio, visited her brother, D. B. Lacy, and family, here in town, and spent several days with her sister, Mrs. Harris Howard, at White Oak. She returned home Sunday leaving her sister convalescent.

Jerry Stacy of Lexington spent the week end here with his wife, who is staying at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Homer Haney.

The beauty contest held at the school auditorium was interesting. Miss Laverna Faulkner was the lucky winner.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Arnett visited their daughter, Mrs. W. H. Sebastian, in Ashland, the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Graham and son Samuel Carter returned Sunday to Florida.

Mrs. T. H. McClure of Pomp visited Saturday her sister, Mrs. Ollie McClain, here.

E. E. Maggard
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE
For Congress - 8th Dist.
Aug. 4th Primary

Perpetual office holding and office seeking is against every fundamental of Democracy. My opponents have been running for office and holding office ever since "heck was a pup." The people want a change. Let the voters of the 8th congressional district give it to them on Saturday, August 4, by nominating E. E. Maggard for congress.

Roosevelt, a square man, gave us "The New Deal." Nonduminate and elect a NEW MAN from the eighth congressional district who will join the Square Man and give the people, not only a new deal, but a SQUARE DEAL. Vote for Maggard for congress on Saturday, August 4th, state primary election. (Adv.)

PROTECTING DEPOSITORS

A bank went bust in East Florida, recently, thereby passing into history as the first bank to fail under the national act insuring deposits. Its liabilities to depositors were $211,000. There were 1,750 depositors. All but a score will receive their deposits in full, and each of the others will get $2,500. The first to be paid was a widow whose entire savings of $1,250 were in the bank.

Who loses? The Federal Insurance corporation pays out 37,100,000 of its guaranty fund. In return, it takes over the assets of the bank, on which it will realize what it can. Result: The small depositors receive all their money, and the large depositors get $2,500 each, plus a division of what is left after liquidation and reimbursement of the insurance corporation; and the loss, if any, is spread over the banking strength of the nation.

This seems a far better arrangement than the old one which left the depositors holding the bag and taking what they might get after a long receivership.—Ashland Independent.

FARMERS' COLUMN

The Farm and Home

How to have poor hay: cut it late, so it will be coarse, hard, and unpalatable; overwater it, or leave it out in the rain; store it damp, so it will mold; bale it dry and brittle, so it will lose most of its leaves.

Fifty buckets, separators, and other utensils are given credit to ranch of the poor cream that goes to market. All equipment should be washed first with cold water, then with hot water and soap, and then rinsed with very hot or boiling water.

Commercial materials sold for bleaching and cleaning clothes should be used with care. Follow directions carefully, or much damage will be done to the garments. Some of them cannot be used at all on cloth made of rayon or part rayon. Few can be used on colored materials.

Other than raspberries, there is little summer pruning that now is considered good practice. Currants, gooseberries, and grapes are no longer pruned in the warm months, and trees seldom or never pruned in summer, other than removing water sprouts.

Another year with several months of short rainfall has renewed interest in wells on farms. Many farmers have come to realize that they can no longer depend on ponds, springs, and creeks. Windmills are appearing in more numbers every year.

Drying continues to be one of the most extensively used methods of preserving fruits and vegetables. Practically all kinds can be dried in the sun to a keeping state, if they are covered with mosquito netting to keep off insects. Covering with glass protects against both insects and dirt.

Tobacco Control
 Plans for the administration of the Kerr-Smith tobacco act, announced thru the Kentucky college of agriculture, provide for a tax of 25 percent of the market value on all tobacco produced by growers who do not receive tax payment warrants either under production adjustment contracts or by allotments made to noncontracting producers.

The act authorizes issuance to contracting growers nontransferable tax-payment warrants expressed in pounds of tobacco and covering the amount of tobacco which such contracting producers are permitted to market under their contracts.

In addition, the secretary of agriculture may issue in any county further warrants covering an amount of tobacco up to 6 percent of the amount covered by the warrants issued to contracting producers.

Under provisions of the Kerr-Smith act, the sign-up was resumed until July 28, giving eligible growers who did not sign contracts another opportunity to sign and escape the payment of the tax.

All applications of nonsigners for allotments of tax free tobacco must be recommended by the county tobacco control committee and approved by the county agent before the secretary of agriculture will issue tax-payment warrants. These warrants will not be issued to any noncontracting grower unless it is impossible to give him an equitable allotment under a tobacco production adjustment contract.

Poultry Still Profitable

Records kept by three Meade county farmers in cooperation with County Agent Ray C. Hopper indicate that there is money in poultry, even at the present low prices for chickens and relatively high price of feed.

Mrs. Forest Jones realized $54 from 123 White Rock cockerels, or $28 more than the cost of raising 280 chicks to the age of 12 weeks, and she had, in addition, 109 pullets and 19 cockerels left on the farm. Her chicks were placed in the brooder house Feb. 21.

Mrs. Mayne Applegate made a profit of $102 on her 200 Rhode Island Red chicks at the age of 12 weeks, and had 75 pullets left. Her chicks were hatched Feb. 18, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mills also report good profits from their flocks.

J. E. Humphrey, of the poultry department of the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky, offers the following explanation for the success of these Meade county poultry raisers:

"In the first place these chicks were hatched from eggs that were laid by hens that had been blood tested for bacillary white diarrhea or pullorum disease for several years. Second, they were fed a balanced ration. Third, these chicks were hatched early and the broilers were sold while prices were comparatively high. Fourth, the cost of production was held down by the use of feeds mixed according to the recommendation of the county agent. Brick brooders fired with wood were used, and chick losses were low."

Try to Control Dodder

The suggestion that efforts be made to control dodder, one of the worst weeds in clover and lespedeza, is made by Dr. E. N. Fegans of the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky.

Where dodder appears, only in small spots in a field, it may be cut with a scythe or sickle and hauled off, he points out; or, perhaps better, it can be burned. This can be done by covering the spot with straw, or sprinkling with coaloil, and then firing in a gasoline torch may be used.

Fields too generally infested with dodder to apply the above methods should be closely pastured, says Dr. Fegans.

Restrictions Removed

All restrictions on the growing of corn fodder and grain sorghums for forage have been removed by the AAA.

Farmers now may grow these crops or other forage crops on rented and nonrented land. They must not be grown for grain, however, as there has been no relaxation in the program to adjust the production of basic crops. Land rented to the government may not be pastured or used to produce hay or other forage crops.

Manifold Ways in Which the Banks Are Serving the Nation

Handling Millions of Transactions Daily for Individuals, Corporations and State and National Governments—The Structure Strengthened and Deserving of Public Faith

 By FRANCIS MARION LAW,
 President American Bankers Association

F. M. LAW

THE banks of the nation provide the machinery through which pass daily many millions of checks and drafts, aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars.

The banks are largely financing the Federal Government in its Recovery Program, involving the greatest peacetime expenditures ever known. Likewise the banks are largely financing the current credit needs of states, counties, cities, public schools and other political subdivisions, all of which have intimately to do with the daily affairs of all of the people.

Each day banks throughout the country are making hundreds of thousands of new loans and they are renewing and extending old loans for the accommodation of a vast number of borrowers, these borrowers being individuals, corporations and partnerships and their loans being incident to agriculture, industry and trade in every community in the land.

The banks, through their trust departments, are continuing the work which they have faithfully carried on throughout the depression and are protecting trust funds placed in their care against the worst shrinkage of values ever known. Included in this activity is the service the banks are performing in connection with administering the affairs of widows and orphans.

The banks, through the medium of their savings and thrift deposit departments, are furnishing safety for the accumulations of many millions of people and on this class of deposits banks' interest is paid.

Banks are providing a service for the safe-keeping of the possessions, papers and securities of the very large number of people. The officers of banks are unselfishly giving advice and counsel to the people of their communities, thereby to a considerable extent guiding their daily financial and fiscal affairs during this most difficult period of disturbance.

The Banking Structure Strengthened

The banking structure as it is today has been greatly strengthened and the process of strengthening still goes on. Banking is not a closed science. The banking system which we have had was not good enough, and I earnestly believe that an able and non-partisan commission should be set up to make a study of our numerous banking laws to the end that a properly correlated banking system might be worked out and submitted for consideration to the next Congress.

A good system would include rigid requirements as to management, intelligent and impartial supervision and, in due time, unification of supervision. Such a system, composed of banks adequately capitalized, capably managed and conscientiously supervised would eliminate any possibility of a recurrence of what has happened in the past four years.

The temporary Federal deposit insurance plan under which deposits in banks up to $2,500 for each account are insured has been in effect for six months and has proven a potent factor in restoring confidence. Only two small banks out of over fourteen thousand holding membership in the fund have failed during this six month period. The temporary plan has been extended very wisely, for a year, and the amount of the insured deposit has been increased to $5,000, thus insuring in full over 98% in number of the depositors in the country's banks.

Hoarded money is returning to the banks and deposits are showing a vast increase. Banks everywhere are super-lucent, meaning that they have an unusually heavy proportion of their deposits in cash. There are two kinds of unemployment in the country—unemployment of men and unemployment of dollars. These men and these dollars must be put to work. Banks in strong and highly liquid condition are prepared and determined to do their proper part in putting money to work.

Requisites for Grants of Bank Credit
 That brings me to the all important question of the granting of credit by banks. Two things are necessary to increase bank credit:

 1st. The banks must be liquid and confident in their own strength.
 2nd. Business men must further lay their fears and regain confidence to the point where they will dare to think and plan ahead.

The first requisite is accomplished. The second is in process. Bank credits will increase and money will go to work as soon as business men get over their disinclination to borrow and this will be when they begin to see profits within their reach.

In past depressions the real movement of the expansion in bank credit has always come after general business recovery got under way and not before. The number of good credit risks is increasing daily. Not in my time have good borrowers been so warmly welcomed at banks as they are today. Never before has there been such competition for good loans, nor has the interest rate ever been so low. Every sound business in the country today can get what money it needs.

A Return of Normal Lending
 Banks are badly needing loans for revenue purposes, and now that confidence in banks has been largely restored they are naturally returning to a more normal lending policy. Before the bank holiday the confidence of the people was shattered. The thought uppermost in the minds of depositors was the safety of their funds. Withdrawals from banks became increasingly heavy and general. Under such circumstances the banker, mindful of his primary responsibility to his depositors, was more concerned in the collection of loans than in the making of new loans. The result was a severe contraction of credit. For this the banker should not be blamed. He simply performed his manifold duty.

Bankers at this time are very properly viewing the credit needs of business with serious and sympathetic consideration. Applicants for loans are not always familiar with the rules governing bank credit and constructive and interested help on the part of the banker will bring about the making of many additional loans, without doing violence to any principle of good banking.

Certainly no one would advocate the making of unsound loans by banks. The creation of a large volume of unsound loans would not only weaken the banks—it would prolong the depression and wipe out some of the gains already made. It is to be earnestly hoped that no banker will yield under the pressure of his desire for earnings, or for any other reason, and make loans of the wrong sort. John Otley of Atlanta, in a recent address said: "The plan of lending freely and hoping for the best has never proven wise."

There are many needs for credit of kinds which are not within the province of commercial banks to meet. Likewise there are many types of credit, but there are also many types of credit facilities available—enough, it would seem, to meet the requirements of all classes of worthy borrowers.

The Duty of Every Banker
 It is clearly the duty of every banker in the country to perform certain services. The most important are:

1. To afford perfect safety for deposits.

2. To grant credit to those who deserve it.

In the matter of credits the public must in fairness remember that commercial banks are not lending their own money, but the money of their depositors, represented very largely by the earnings and savings of the people. The people who own these deposits have accumulated them through years of labor and sacrifice, and in many cases the deposit represents their life. These depositors have the right to call for their money at any time, or at most on short notice. Deposits constitute a sacred trust.

There are certain basic principles in sound banking that must be held onto even in this period of change, but the progressive banker must be responsive to changing conditions and he must be active in seeking proper opportunities to meet the sound needs of his customers.

Is a recent message to Congress, the President said—"I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future of much of the burden which it has assumed will be fulfilled."

Repeated assurance has been given by the Administration that there is no desire on its part to continue government lending a moment longer than is necessary and that at the earliest possible time the government will gladly give way to the banks and other lending institutions. This, of course, is as it should be and we are all earnestly looking forward to the time when private initiative and enterprise shall have recovered its vitality sufficiently to throw government crutches away.

Numerous bank failures have been averted in the minds of many a grossly exaggerated idea as to the losses of depositors in closed banks. The record indicates that depositors in banks which closed in the past three years will realize on an average about 65c on the dollar. That would mean a loss of 35%. It has been estimated that during the depression the average value of investments in stocks lost about 90%; bonds similarly declined approximately 60% and commodities 65%.

Deposits in sound banks continued to be worth 100% throughout the depression and 90% of the bank deposits of the country were not affected.

Bankers Deserve Confidence
 The country can have full confidence in the integrity and competence of the bankers of the country. Out of the lessons of the last few years has come experience that will be valuable to the banker and to his community. He can be counted on to show a proper appreciation of his responsibilities and obligations and to take his place among those who are making earnest and unselfish effort to promote recovery. He is not infallible, but with every power that lies within him I believe he may be depended upon to fulfill his duty as a custodian of the people's money, as a dispenser of credit and as a God-fearing American citizen imbued with
